Leading Pianos, Organs and Music, There is a strong tinge of romance in the case of Second Lieutenant Chas. E. Lang, second artillery, now undergoing examination by an army retiring board at Governor's Island. This is the second time he has applied for retirement. His first application was made a few months after his graduation at the Military Academy, In June, 1894. His request was granted and he was duly examined. The board reported him perfectly able to do active duty, and he was ordered to join his regiment. Last fall he was granted six months' leave of absence, at the expiration of which time he again applied for retirement. The pres-

Lang was one of the brightest men in his class at West Point. He graduated among the first ten men. During his last year at the academy he During his last year at the academy he met Miss Mamie Kinkle, the daughter of Commissary Sergeant Kinkle. Lang is a very devout Catholic. While a cadet he was superintendent of the Sunday school in the soldiers' Catholic chapel. Miss Kinkle was one of his assistants. She was a bright, vivacious, and unusually attractive Pianos moved, tuned and repaired.

Look around and make comparisons—we profit thereby, for if you some cadd Synday school acquaintance led to more friendly relations, and a few weeks before graduation it was rumored that the young cadet Sunday school supe was betrothed to his preposessing assistant,

the commissary sergeant's daughter.
"West Point social circles were dumfounded. Lang was warned by the officers that an alliance with the soldier's daughter would forever blight his career as an offi-cer. The Rev. Father O'Keefe, the Catholic priest at West Point, was asked to use his priestly influence to prevent the marriage. Father O'Keefe, who knew Miss Klnkle, thought her unwise to marry outside her own circle, but his advice was unheeded. Then it was intimated to Sergeant Kinkle that he had better prevent the marriage. But neither officer, priest, nor parent could prevent it.

Socially Ostracised. "Immediately after getting his diploma. Lang met Miss Kinkle, they were driven to Highland Falls, and married in the Catholic Church there. Since that day Lang and his wife have been socially ostracised. Lang's best man was Hospital Steward Lally. A few weeks after the marriage Lally was dismissed from the army. His discharge was attributed by his friends to the part he took in the Lang affair. Sergeant Kinkle then found it agreeable to leave West Point. He wanted to get stationed in the east, so as to be near Mrs. Lang, who is his only child, but he was sent to Texas.
"When Lang got back to Fort Warren again after the Glenham experience, it was painfully apparent that Mrs. Lang's existence would not be pleasant. It is this anxiety to begin life in a sphere where Mrs. Lang will not be constantly reminded that she is the daughter of a private that has caused Lang to seek retirement."

Against Eckington Railroad Exten-

Senator McMillan today presented to the Senate several petitions from citizens liv-ing on the line of the Eckington rallway protesting against the extension of that line and asking that the company be compelled to adopt rapid transit. There were over a hundred names signed to the petition. These protests have been pouring into the District committees at both ends of the Capitol for several weeks, and there are now many hundreds of names on file. The general belief is that the Eckington line extensions will not be granted, and that the Senate committee, at least, will try to secure the passage of a rapid transit bill applying to the Belt and Eckington systems at this session. For Feeble-Minded Children.

Mr. Babcock has introduced a bill to amend the act creating the board of children's guardians, as follows:

"That said board shall continue to have the care and supervision of the indigent feeble-minded children of the District of Columbia who were prior to July 1, 1893. under the care and supervision of the Secretary of the Interior. "That said board shall have the care and supervision of indigent feeble-minded children hereafter committed to its care and supervision by the Police Court of the District of Columbia, or by the Supreme Court of said District sitting as a criminal court or as an orphans' court, and power is hereby given to said courts to commit such children to said board, such commitmen; to continue until revoked by Denmark's Monarch a Perfect Type of a Danish Gentleman.

Writes of the Merits of a Great Discovery.

However true it may be with regard to the Czar of all the Russias that "Uneasy rests the head that wears a crown," the same certainly cannot be said of King Christian of Denmark. His throne is not alone in the halls of the imperial palace, but likewise in the hearts of his people, and so firmly are its foundations set that there is not the slightest fear either for his own person or for the salvation of his kingdom.

Well balanced in mind, of fine and commanding physique, with fine education and advanced ideas on all great problems of the day and generation, international as well as national, he is the idol of his people, a good Christian, a good sound and liberal ruler and a perfect man, mentally, morally and physically.

Like other crowned heads of Europe, King Christian has had recourse to the Genuine JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT, and he says of it: "I have noticed the beneficial action of JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT on myself, as well as on others of my household, and am pleased to acknowledge this."

A NOVEL CONTEST.

High School Pupils Striving to Win a Fine Bicycle.

High School pupils are taking great interest in the contest for the $100 Sterling bleycle which Mr. James F. Oyster has offered to the one among them who secures the largest number of orders for five-pound boxes of his famous creamery butter before May 1, 1896. Mr. Oyster adopted this novel feature with a double purpose in view-to better familiarize the public with the unvarying excellence of his creamery butter, and to give the High School pupils an opportunity to develop that business ability which will stand them to such good purpose in fut me life. Consequently, the boys and girls are exerting their best efforts and striving their utmost to secure the wheel. As orders secured from persons who already deal with Mr. Oyster will count in the final reckoning, the number being cent in each day is very large.

oppose it. A Watchman at Wakefield.

Col. Wilson has asked Congress to authorize the employment of a watchman, at $50 a month, to guard the monument to mark the birthplace of Washington at Wakefield, Va. He regards this as necessary in order to protect the shaft from defacement by relic hunters. Years ago Mr. G. W. P. Custis placed a large marble slab at Wakefield. It was gradually chipped to pieces by visitors, and carried away, until now not a vestige of it remains. Fragments of the stone were peddled in distant cities as relics of Washington. It is the belief of Col. Wilson and others that unless proper protection is given the na-tional monument about to be erected at Wakefield it will in time suffer the fate of the Custis memorial stone and disappear from the face of the earth.
